Anderson and Brown sweep to City Council victories

Bernard Anderson and Ken Brown swept to victory Tuesday and won election to the Carmel City Council, outdistancing three other candidates.

Anderson won a stunning victory, polling 698 votes, more than any of the other candidates, in his first try for elective office. The soft-spoken chairman of the Carmel Forestry Commission told the Pine Cone he was "surprised" at the dimensions of his win. "I was hopeful that I might run third", Anderson declared, "because the other candidates are all known favorably in the community."

Brown, who was chosen two years ago to fill the unexpired term of William Sefton, who had resigned, was favored to retain his Council seat. He told a Pine Cone reporter after the election results were posted that he "enjoys living in Carmel, the people and the way of life, and now that I have retired and can devote the time to working for the city, I am sure I can make a contribution."

A total of 1435 Carmelites of the 2,861 registered voters, or 50.2 percent turned out to vote. This was some 10 percent less than the 1968 election, which was held during an "election year."

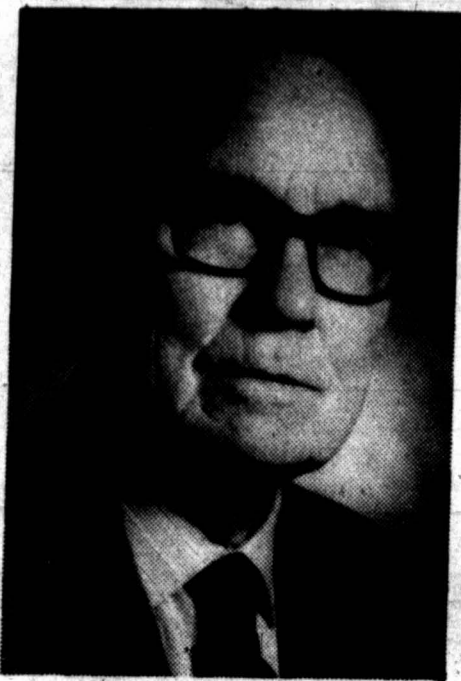

Gunnar Norberg, a former councilman, ran a strong third in the voting, polling 624 votes, just seven more than in his last try.

Charles McEwen, chairman of the city's planning commission, although keenly disappointed at his loss, pledged to continue his efforts to work in the city's behalf.

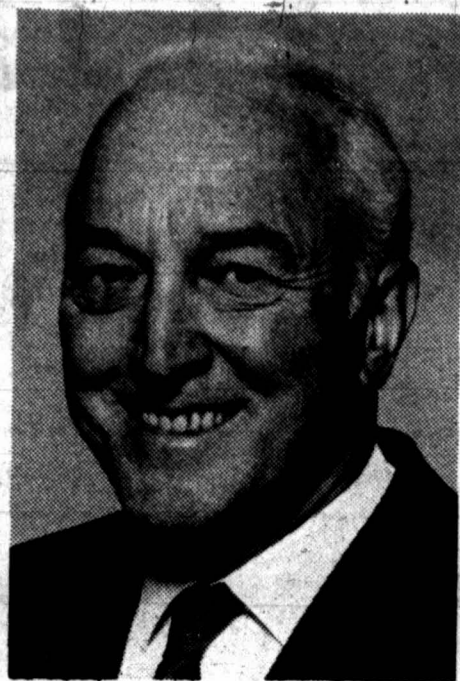

Les Gross, property manager for Carmel Realty, ran a distant last in the voting, attracting only 209 votes. Many observers expected the active realtor to make a better showing.

Mayor Barney Laiolo said he was pleased with the results, and that the new Council was comprised of a "fine bunch of men. I look forward to working with a very harmonious Council." Laiolo singled out Mr. Anderson as a man with "a lot of potential, who has done outstanding work on the forestry commission and formulating the city's Forest Management Plan."

While the modest Anderson attributed his win to the good public relations he enjoyed for his work on the forestry commission, most observers also cited his quiet, soft-spoken personality which apparently struck a responsive chord with capricious Carmel voters. He reportedly spent a good deal of time knocking on doors in Carmel, introducing himself to the voters.

Anderson had kind words for Mayor Laiolo, calling him a "capable executive, doing a wonderful job, and deserving of our support."

This latter statement would seem to indicate that Laiolo may be a cinch to win re-election as Mayor when the new council is seated next Tuesday. He has strong support among the incumbent councilmen.

Voters narrowly approve Proposition 1; Rennells 'disappointed', won't quit

Carmel voters surprised most observers by narrowly approving Proposition One on the ballot Tuesday. This measure, now law, makes the City Clerk and City Treasurer positions appointive, instead of elective.

The thin margin (700 "Yes"-660 "No") by which the proposition squeaked through is a subject of speculation around Carmel, because very little opposition had surfaced prior to the election.

Hugh Bayless, city administrator, who is also the city clerk, will offer his resignation to the newly seated council on Tuesday. He is expected to be appointed city clerk, since no other likely candidate for the post has come forward.

John Rennells, who was elected city treasurer two years ago, told the Pine Cone that he plans to serve out the remainder of his term, another two years. "I was disappointed in the vote", he said, "because I wanted to maintain more independence in the office."

When an elected official comes up for re-election every four years, the voters can retain or remove him as they please."

"I like to see a happy family on City Council, but I'd like to see a little more independence too", he declared.

Rennells is assistant vice president of Carmel Savings & Loan Association in Carmel. His "pay" for serving as city treasurer is $65 per month.

Will school board put bus park at Middle School?

The Carmel school board will decide where to locate its controversial maintenance garage and parking area for school buses at its next meeting on Wednesday, April 22.

The choice is between two locations: a two-acre site behind Carmelo School, opening onto Schulte Road, or an area at the south-east edge of the Middle School property, facing the future extension of Rio Road.

In a letter submitted to Supt. of Schools Harris Taylor and members of the board last week, architect Fred Keeble said his firm can find no objection to the original master plan for the property, which called for eventual construction of a high school, elementary school and school bus compound on the 53-acre site.

Under questioning by trustee Steven Sassoon, Keeble said he didn't think traffic congestion will be a problem there, since buses will be able to use the extended portion of Rio Road.

He said the maintenance building would be designed to blend well with other buildings in the area, and that the Middle School site was preferable to Carmelo because there are no homes nearby.

"You're not going to wake up anybody in the morning," he explained.

In other matters, the school board:

1. Accepted "with great regret" the resignation of Dorothy L. Wright, assistant principal at Carmel High School for reasons of health. Miss Wright has served in the district for 24 years.

2. Authorized the school district to reach an agreement with the Monterey County Superintendent of Schools for hearing test services for the 1970-71 school year.

3. Approved renewal of a contract for audio-visual services for the district with the County Office of Education for the coming school year.

4. Learned with some surprise and obvious pleasure that students at Carmel High School have volunteered to construct an attractive courtyard in an area now known as "the dust bowl". Brink Harrison, student member of the board, explained that the work will be done on weekends under the direction of Walter Hinton, business manager for the school district.

Advisory Commission OK's Route 1 as Scenic Highway

A six mile section of Route 1, beginning at the Carmel River and extending north to the highway's intersection with Route 68, has been recommended as an official state scenic highway by the Scenic Highway Advisory Committee.

The corridor, now awaiting final approval by State Director James A. Moe links Route 68 and Route 1, south of Carmel River, both already scenic highways.

In August, 1968, Carmel, Monterey and Monterey County acted jointly by asking the State Highway Department for a study of the corridor; the Highway Department sent a team which made a field survey and handed the report over to the Carmel, Monterey, and Monterey County Planning Commission.

The Commission's armed with the report and a program for protecting the corridor approached the Scenic Highway Advisory Committee at the state level and asked that the six mile section of highway in question be designated as a scenic highway.

To gain that recommendation the planning commissions had to assure the Scenic Highway Advisory Committee that the local jurisdictions had a program providing for comprehensive environmental planning.

Darrell Husum, Scenic Highway Coordinator in Sacramento, told the Pine Cone that these programs "must have consideration for the public and protect the environmental scenery."

The Scenic Highway Advisory Committee expects the local program for a Bomb threat at Carmel High

Students were evacuated from Carmel High School Monday morning after an anonymous caller phoned in a bomb threat. Shortly after 9 a.m. a "mature male" telephoned to say that a bomb had been planted on campus to protest the Chicago Seven Trial.

Sheriff's Lt. Henry Gilpin and four deputies conducted a search, but no bomb was found.

Schools Supt. Harris Taylor said that although he was not happy about sending the students home since it encouraged further calls of that kind, officials decided they had no choice.

proposed scenic highway to contain four parts: a general plan; a specific plan; land usage regulations; and an ordinance prohibiting billboard type advertising in the corridor.

Frequently the land usage regulations include zoning regulations, underground utility requirements, and architectural regulations.

Mr. Husum said that the Carmel-Monterey area has an outstanding record in the area of protecting the public domain.

While Route 1 does not run through Carmel now, the City is involved in the planning because of its proximity, and the need for the city to be involved in land use regulations in this area.

Normally once the Scenic Highway Advisory Commission recommends a highway, its approval is routine.

Local girl scouts to parade Saturday

All the Girl Scout troops from Carmel and Carmel Valley will be represented in the Bicentennial Parade this Saturday, April 18. They will join other girls from the Peninsula in the parade down Jefferson Street to Calle Principal and to Custom House Plaza where a historical program will begin at 1:00.

Theme for the local contingent is "Era of Padres and Soldiers - 1769-1774."

Troop No. 2028, Carmel Valley, will be dressed as sailors and will march with a five-foot paper mache ship.

Troops 2080, Carmel, and 2088 and 2037, Carmel Valley, have made Indian costumes complete with moccasins and feathers. Troop 2080 will carry a large paper mache tepee.

Troops No. 2035 and 2121 of Carmel will march as soldiers. Each Brownie has made and painted her own paper mache horse to ride.

Brownie Troop No. 2084 will march along with their sister Troop No. 2063. They have made replicas of the original padre robes and will carry a wooden cross. Junior Troops No. 2069 and 2009 will wear padre costumes which they designed. They will carry a paper mache mission and a large mission bell.

Other girls will carry large colorful flowers, and will offer dramatic presentations and singing.

Report From RLS

Robert U. Ricklefs, president of the Robert Louis Stevenson School, has announced the receipt of a gift of a complete set of first editions of books by the famous author after whom the school is named.

These valuable and rare volumes were a gift to the school from the estate of the late C. Pardee Erdman, who served for 12 years as a member of the board of directors of the school. Most of the books were collected by Erdman's father, a long-time professor at Princeton University.

One of the most interesting is a relatively unknown work, "Edinburgh," illustrated with pen and ink sketches, containing Stevenson's account of his native city. This book came from the library of C.L. Dodgson (Lewis Carroll) author of "Alice in Wonderland."

The books will have a permanent home in the Rane Books Room of the new library on the Pebble Beach campus.

Cancer drive in Carmel

This week a group of local business people is contacting Carmel shop-keepers to solicit contributions for the American Cancer Society's April Crusade.

Mrs. Jinny Zack, Carmel area chairman, is leading the fight to get dollars to combat cancer.

According to the American Cancer Society cancer will strike one in four Americans now living if the present rates continue; two out of three families will be affected by the disease.

"Cancer affects us all, directly or indirectly," says Mrs. Zack. "All of us, therefore, should enlist in the Crusade."

Between now and the end of the month, residential volunteers will be bringing the message to Carmel householders.

Council approves ordinance regulating outside displays

A new Carmel city ordinance requires all merchants with limited displays of merchandise on private property, outside the building, to obtain a permit by May 8 by applying at the Building Inspector's office at city hall.

According to City Attorney William Burleigh the Council acted last week to keep Carmel's atmosphere from being eroded by outside displays out of keeping with the village's esthetic tradition. Until now Carmelites have been bound only by an unwritten rule requiring displays to fall into one of several categories. Now to obtain a permit the ordinance states:

- (1) The merchandise display is not out of scale, inharmonious, or bizarre.
- (2) The display does not offend sensibilities, does not debase the community, or detract from the natural beauty and charm of the village;
- (3) The display would not tend to reduce real estate values;
- (4) The display is adjacent to and contiguous with the specific commercial use, is representative of the general line of merchandise;
- (5) The display is reasonably necessary to promote the economic well-being of the community and the specific commercial use;

(6) The merchandise is within one of the following classifications:

- (a) Original art work;
- (b) Newspaper and postcard racks;
- (c) Vegetables and fruit
- (d) Pottery
- (e) Plant life, including flowers;
- (f) Garden supplies and tools;
- (g) Motor oil at Service Station sites;
- (h) Antiques;
- (i) Straw and wicker objects;
- (j) Bicycles."

A complete transcript of the ordinance can be found on page 20 of this issue of the Pine Cone.

Everybody - artists, and artisans as well as merchants - will be bound by the new ordinance.

Hugh Bayless, City Administrator, said that there have been no serious offenders so far, and the ordinance is a preventive measure to give tradition the weight of law. "The Council and Planning Commission designed the ordinance to save Carmel from a flea market appearance and still protect the traditional rights of certain types of businesses to have outside displays," Mr. Bayless said.

Senator Murphy visits Carmel, discusses political problems

U.S. Senator George Murphy's overnight visit to Carmel Valley last weekend was dominated by one theme: The Senate's rejection of G. Harrold Carswell as a Supreme Court justice.

Murphy strongly defended President Nixon's nomination of Carswell at a $25-a-plate campaign dinner at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club Friday night.

Carswell was still on his mind Saturday morning as the Republican Senator, campaigning for re-election, finished a leisurely breakfast before attending "Mexico Day" ceremonies in Monterey.

Murphy said he had been surprised by the size of the vote (51 to 45) against Carswell and pointed to Sen. Marlow Cook (R-Ky.) as the man who tipped the balance.

"His 'nay' vote took two others with it, Senators Schweiker (R-Pa.) and Prouty (R-Vt.)," Murphy declared.

Murphy said others have singled out the "no" votes of Senators William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.) and Albert Gore (Dem.-Tenn.) "because they're from Southern states, and there were geographic considerations."

However, Murphy said, he does not agree with President Nixon's assertion that the present Senate would never approve a qualified nominee from the South.

"No, I don't agree with that statement," he said, "although it certainly seems it is difficult to get someone from the South confirmed. These two men (Hanesworth and Carswell) were pretty good."

SNOW JOB?

Murphy also backed away from Vice President Agnew's charge that the Senate had been the victim of "the biggest snow job in history."

"It's not easy to snow everybody," Murphy said with a slight smile. "But there isn't any question but that the power of labor politics was evident in this. You put labor and the extreme liberals and the civil rights group and certain elements of the press together and it is a pretty formidable team."

Murphy explained that his support of Carswell was based on the report of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which recommended confirmation.

"Then opposition developed amid a lot of confusion about a golf club and a statement he made 22 years ago. I think that was a pretty weak case, but sometimes a case can be as weak or as strong as you want it to be."

"I wouldn't presume to sit in judgment on my colleagues," he added, "but by the same token I don't hesitate to say what I think."

When asked if he thought the Carswell case should properly be a campaign issue, Murphy gave an indirect answer.

"I believe our system of government is a representative system," he replied. "A group is elected, and if they do the will of the people, they're acting properly. If they impose their own desires and designs they should probably be replaced."

He declined to elaborate further. In his speech Friday night he had charged that the Senate's rejection of Carswell "does not reflect the will of the people and was not a proper exercise of the responsibility of advise and consent."

Murphy discussed Carswell while standing at the entrance to the main dining room of the country club, in the midst of some confusion about what had been billed as a formal press conference.

A San Jose television crew stalked out after learning that the Senator had given an exclusive interview over breakfast to the Monterey paper. The two local television stations that remained asked for brief individual interviews, and the "press conference" turned into a stand-up interview by one reporter. The Senator was clearly annoyed by the entire episode, and his press secretary seemed primarily interested in getting to Monterey on time for their next appointment.

Despite these distractions, the Senator answered a few more quick questions.

He said he was not surprised by the latest figures on unemployment, showing a sharp rise in March to 4.4 percent.

"It has to rise," he commented. "Or perhaps I shouldn't say it has to, but that you should have expected it. When you start to try to slow down inflation, it is bound to cause some job dislocations."

Murphy blamed persons who attack the military-industrial complex for causing some of the rise in unemployment.

"When you have people attacking the military, you get cutbacks on military installations, and that causes job cutbacks," he explained.

He said he feels the tight money situation is easing right now, and that the economy in general is coming out of the inflationary spiral.

TONKIN GULF

On another topic, Murphy said he could not agree with the recommendation of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to repeal the Gulf of Tonkin resolution.

"I think that's 40,000 dead Americans away," he stated. "I think there's great confusion being built up about this, just as there has been about the whole Vietnam situation."

He suggested that everyone should go read the history of the conflict before reaching any conclusions.

"I have objected continuously to interference with the military by civilians under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations," he added. He said the military are getting a much more receptive hearing from President Nixon and his advisers.

Turning to a local issue, Murphy said that Fort Ord should be required to meet all local anti-pollution laws on sewage disposal. He said he was aware that Monterey Peninsula residents are concerned about pollution along beaches at Fort Ord, and that he is studying the matter.

"I think that all government installations should set the example in pollution control," Murphy said. "If the government is going to set the rules, it certainly ought to abide by them."

Murphy noted that as a senator he is particularly proud of sponsoring an amendment to the clean air bill which allowed California to have the strictest anti-smog regulations in the nation.

The legislation he is most interested in now, he said, is a bill which would outlaw agricultural strikes and boycotts, such as the current grape boycott.

"I think all these are costly strikes," he explained, "and the housewife winds up being the one who pays for them in higher prices."

New ordinance would shield home buyers

A new zoning and building records ordinance passed its first reading by the Carmel City Council April 8. The ordinance, if passed in a second reading, will provide protection for buyers in the residential areas.

The intent of the proposed ordinance is to supply the buyer of residential property with a report of city records pertaining to the authorized use, occupancy, and zoning classification of the property prior to sale. It is also the intent of the ordinance to protect the unwary buyer of residential property against undisclosed restrictions on the use of property.

Occasionally houses in the residential district have illegal apartment units in them; under the proposed ordinance before such a house could be sold to a buyer unaware that the apartments are illegal, the seller would have to furnish a record of city regulations that would inform the buyer.

The original ordinance, as proposed, was amended with a paragraph to free the city from liability in case of a structural instability by stating that the report does not guarantee the structural stability of any existing building or relieve the owner from the requirements of building a structurally stable building.

Some local realtors feel that the new ordinance will just mean more paper work for them since they already provide buyers with zoning status reports as part of their routine service.

The ordinance comes up for its final reading at the next regular City Council meeting in May.

Married at Carmel Mission

The Blessed Sacrament Chapel of the Carmel Mission was the setting for the wedding on Saturday, April 4, of Miss Beverley Lee Blout of Carmel and Dr. Stephen E. Conrad of Vincennes, Ind.

A double ring ceremony was conducted by Father John the Baptist, attended by the families and close friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron B Blout of Carmel. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Betty L. Conrad and the late Dr. Paul F. Conrad of Vincennes.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress made of silk organza, with eyelet embroidery, empire waist and floor length with a small train. Her only attendant was her sister, Belinda Blout.

The best man was Thomas Conrad, brother of the bridegroom.

A champagne reception was held following the rites at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple's honeymoon took them to the "Gold Country", after which they are making their home in Oakland until September when Dr. Conrad will enter the U.S. Air Force, receiving flight surgeon training at San Antonio, Texas.

The new Mrs. Conrad attended Carmel Schools, graduating from Carmel

High School in 1965. She received her B.A. in Art from UCLA in 1969, where she was president of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She is employed by J. Walter Thompson Company in San Francisco.

Fifth graders at River School 'dig' archeology

April 16, 1970

The Carmel Pine Cone-Cymbal

Very few adults, let alone children, have had the opportunity to participate in an archeology "dig". The ten and eleven year olds in the classes of Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Levy, and Miss Ross at River School in Carmel have had just that chance. Under the supervision of archeologist Don Howard, an authority on California Indians, the children were first given an orientation period in their classrooms. The lecture was followed by several days of study and practice digs, learning the use of proper tools, behind the River School and adjacent to the Carmel River.

This is an area very close to Mission San Carlos Borromeo and the San Jose Creek dig area where Don Howard discovered, several years ago, an old village and burial ground of the Costanoan Indian tribes known as Ixchenta.

After a thorough understanding of what was involved in the very detailed, meticulous work of an archeologist, the youngsters were then transported in small groups to the actual dig site on the mound overlooking Carmel Bay, with the permission of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hudson.

Many parents, as well as Mr. Edwin McCurry, principal, spent many hours in taking groups of youngsters to and from school to the special program, so that the youngsters would each have a chance and not miss any of their regular academic activities.

John Rick, an archeology student from U.C. Santa Cruz, helped the children construct rocker-screens for sifting the midden material and helped with the initial study in the techniques of preparing an archeological dig area. When the fifth graders had all participated in the dig, many of them twice, the fourth grades were brought in as part of their study of California Indians.

For eight weeks the students, teachers and parents had a chance to live briefly as archeologists. The famed African archeologist, Dr. Leakey, who has found the oldest known remains of man to date, in East Africa, spoke at Monterey Peninsula College a year ago. He stated at that time, that we need a generation in America, that will help discover the history of man in this part of the world, where almost nothing is known of man's earliest beginnings. He is now involved with a very important find in the area of Calico in southern California.

The artifacts collected by the children-researchers have been quite impressive: one partial burial (skeleton); several projectile points; two partial mortars; hundreds of bones and bone fragments from sea otter, seals, grizzly bear, deer, etc.; several shells used as grinding tools; hundreds of shell samples; a bone needle; and many other items.

Many correlated activities with Social Studies, Mathematics and Composition were tied in with the field studies and excursions to libraries, films and discussions, added greatly to this fabulous experience for the young people of Carmel.

Apparently, the experience was really eye-opening for most of the children, as evidenced by their written compositions. Here are some of their unedited remarks:

Karim Sadeghi: "I am going to write about my second time I went to 'Monterey 12'. Gaudenz P., Bill A., Mary F., Mickey T., and Bob P. went with me to my second dig. Mrs. Priestley and Mrs. Askew were the two mothers that took us and brought us back.

I finished digging in the trench. With Bob I found an artifact which was a punch. Mr. Howard said that Bob and I were good observationists. Bob found a tip or a base of a projectile point (arrowhead). I think that there should be a third or forth time (I don't mean to be selfish) because only one grade should learn it at a time (fifth grade) (of course). The tools I used most often were my hands. Jeff S. went too."

Stacy White: "I went in the afternoon on Wednesday. I went with Don Howard, Michelle Rico, Kim Baker and some other people. I dugged with my trowel and a wisk broom. I dug shovels full. I also sifted. I found lots of bones when I was sifting. John (not John Watts) was too and he found an arrowhead. I think it was good because we got to dig and we got to find things. I think it was a good experience because we got to dig and then we will do better the second time. We had a good time. Now everyone knows what Archeologist do, like sift, dig, find lots of things, and learn a lot of things about the Indians and what they did."

MR. HOWARD (lower left) brushes dirt away from the burial found Friday, March 13, a lucky day for these students (l-r): David Keith (with hat, standing); Miss Karen Ross, (standing), a teacher; David Schlaich, Kerry Mendez, Mark McCurry, Guy DuBettis and parent-helper Mrs. Eleanor Robertson (standing at right).

City Forester granted tree removal authority

The Carmel Forestry Commission has been given authority by the City Council to act on their behalf in decisions relating to tree-cutting and removal.

Mayor Barney Laiolo pointed out, however, that the Council would retain its prerogative to make decisions in questions relating to dead or diseased trees on private property.

"The Forester is certainly better qualified to judge whether a tree on City property should be trimmed or removed," the Mayor said. "Now that we have a full-time forester (Bob Tate) and a full Forestry Commission, we won't have to take up the Council's time with purely technical questions," he said.

The traditional tree tours will continue, the mayor said. Referring to the City policy on tree cutting and trimming on City property, Laiolo pointed out that the City frowns on requests for tree trimming or removal when the purpose is to "improve the view" unless it constitutes a hazard. He said further than individuals retain the right to appeal to the City Council if they are "not happy" with the decision of the City Forester in any particular case.

The new procedures were approved by the Council at their regular meeting last week.

The news of the Hour, Amparo is Coming! Amparo and Company has teamed up with Serrano, famous classical guitarist, to bring an excellent program to the Peninsula, and one very timely with the Bi-Centennial theme of old Monterey. The date is May 3, Sunday evening, 8:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the box office; check with me for up to the minute information concerning tickets. Mark this date on your calendar NOW, we shall look forward to a full house for Amparo & Co.

You will notice on your Arts Coordinating Council monthly calendar another very important date to circle; April 26; a most colorful event, Open House with accent on "Artists in Action" as all studios open their doors to bring an exciting array of talent for your enjoyment. The multimedia of Carmel Graphics including Lithography, Etching, Woodcut, Serigraphy, Drawing and Painting, all will be demonstrated, both by plate and press.

xxx

Robert Horne and Barbara West in Studio 7 will present an exhibit of their latest works, in addition to a guest artist, in a one-man show. Barbara excels in childrens portraits, and will demonstrate one of her favorite subjects. Check with Mr. Horne for his latest schedule of Beginning Painting, a new workshop series. An interesting highlight about his recent trip to Japan, Expo 70, was the sudden acquisition of 50 art students aboard ship, many of whom had never painted at all, but always hopeful of the day they might tackle a canvas and brush. He reports it was a most rewarding voyage.

Our performing arts are planning several exciting highlights in the overall program on April 26, enhancing the stage in Sunset Theater. For instance, Marsha Hovic, Director of the Children's Experimental Theater, residents of Theater in the Ground at Forest Theater, is most excited about her young troupers these days and they too will present a twenty minute program in the late afternoon of the 26th.

Mary Burr and Marianne Holstrom are working with a quartet of talented young students of Studio 13, Mary Burr is dedicated to teaching the finest techniques in Ballet, and this performance bespeaks her talents as our Dance Instructor in Studio 13. As time goes by, Marianne will be working out special programs in Modern Dance.

Lenore Wollems will display many of her sculptures in various media, such as clay, alabaster, wood, and metal, and her students will demonstrate techniques in wood and terra cotta. Studio 15 promises to be a very busy place these days as new media and new resident sculptors share these quarters.

Black Lion Productions will enhance our new screen on April 26 with their newest film. Diane is most enthusiastic about their documentary film for television. All studios considered, this promises to be a most stimulating day. Richard Brace of Studio 11 will record this eventful day for us on film, so we may long remember this colorful event. April 26 is also the last day to view the fine show in Studio 1 in Friends of Photography.

This is your Center and this is your day, for your enjoyment, come and participate in this special day at SUN-SET.

SPECIAL FILM ON RED CHINA TO BE SHOWN AT SUNSET

Explorama, the popular travel adventure film series, is presenting a special program which is not part of their regular series. "China", an award winning 2-hour color documentary film, will be narrated in person by its producer and photographer, Danish author and explorer Jens Bjerre. The film will be shown at 8:15 p.m. Friday, April 24th, at the Sunset Auditorium in Carmel.

Bjerre has recently returned from his third visit to the Communist mainland with what has been hailed as one of the most astonishing documentaries of this decade. In his uncensored film, Mr. Bjerre reveals as much as possible about the Communist Mainland and its 730 million people. Highlights include a trip from Moscow on the Great Siberian Railway across Mongolia and the Gobi Desert to China. The Chinese people are shown in the country and in the major cities of Peking, Hangchow, Shanghai and Soochow.

Traces of ancient culture are shown in old temples and palaces and in Chinese art. Other features of the film include the Great Wall Of China, collective farms, workers-brigades, factories, schools, kindergardens and homes. The film is climaxed by one of the most unusual sequences in documentary history. You will see an enormous political demonstration with over 100,000 people participating.

Reserved seat tickets are available in advance at Julia Marlowe's Knit Shop, Mission & 6th Ave. (May Court) in Carmel. (This is the former location of Central Box Office.)

POWDER PUFF DERBY volunteers are seen making plans for the group's luncheon Apr. 23 at the La Playa, in Carmel. The ladies are (l-r): Mrs. Albert Hood, Carmel Valley; Mrs. William Boyle of Carmel, a charter member of the "99's"; Mrs. Arthur Jensen, Carmel Valley; and Mrs. Matthew Jenkins of Pebble Beach.

Carmel Library offers more than just books

Services offered by the Carmel public library go far beyond lending books and magazines. Some of the less well known services now offered are listed below.

STORY HOUR
To supplement the 20,000 books available for children, story hours are held four times a month. The children's librarian does the reading.

REFERENCES
The reference librarian can answer questions from what is the telephone number of Mary Smith of Denver, Iowa, to questions involving research on her part.

INTERLIBRARY LOANS
The library can furnish a patron in one day any book in the county library system, and if a particular book is not available, it can obtain it from any library in the state through the mail.

RECORDS
Classical, popular, language, and spoken records are shelved in bins near the circulation desk.

FRAMED PRINTS
Well known art works may be borrowed for hanging at home.

LARGE TYPE BOOKS
About 400 books are available in large type for people with tired eyes, and the library receives all such books as soon as they are printed. A weekly New York Times is also available in large type, containing a summary of all the world and national news of the week.

FILMS
Super 8 mm and 8 mm films of the early film classics from the days of the Keystone Cops can be checked out to adults. A projector is available to groups and organizations.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS
Rare books -- books dating back to 1505 are kept in the head librarian's office.

Tollfree autograph collection -- the library has both books of autographs collected by Mrs. Tollfree, plus several autographs on cards.

Carmel Collection -- Something by every author and poet from Carmel is represented, including many signed rare copies.

Arctic Explorations -- Ernest Leffingwell, maker of maps of the arctic region still used today, donated his collection of books on arctic explorations to the library.

American Indian -- a collection begun to rectify a shortage of information.

Nixon Collection -- a collection begun by Clara Nixon who left it to the city, which contains much information about Carmel in the early days, in the form of newspaper clippings and many early photographs of Carmel.

Weston Prints -- Donated by Richard McGraw and originally valued at $4000, several of the prints are hanging in the reading room.

Drama and Technical Theater -- The library buys plays as soon as they can get them, plus information on directing, make-up, scenes, and props.

Foreign Language Collection -- So far this collection is French, but the library hopes to add Spanish and German books to the collection soon.

Telephone Service -- Reference questions and book renewals may be phoned into the library.

CARMEL'S URBAN FOREST

Few topics can arouse the passions of Carmelites as the proud heritage of our trees. Our remarkable tree-studded city-by-the-sea is world-famed for the majesty, beauty and serenity of our urban forest.

Yet, just 12 short years ago, our trees were in danger of extinction. Heeding the repeated warnings of experts who predicted barren areas because many of the trees were over-mature or even-aged, the City fathers authorized a survey of the entire forest in 1961.

A Management Plan for this unique urban forest was finally evolved and recently adopted by the City Council.

Because of the intense interest by Carmelites in their beloved trees, the Pine Cone, in coming weeks, will print excerpts from this Plan.

Did you know, for instance, that there are 10,515 trees in Carmel on the streets and other public property? This includes 4,333 Monterey Pines, 2,962 Live Oak, and 420 Monterey Cypress, in addition to 91 Eucalyptus and 34 Coast Redwoods.

You'll read all about this and more in today's installment, and the installments to come.

The trees of Carmel

BY ROBERT TATE
City Forester

This week, weather permitting, the forestry crew will start the oak moth spraying program. The scope of this program is to spray all city-owned oak trees with an insecticide and a fertilizer combined into one formulation. It should take approximately six weeks to complete the spraying. The insecticide used is called Sevin and is not related to DDT or DDT-related compounds.

Much has been said lately about the use of insecticides and their adverse effects on our environment. Some insecticides, DDT for example, are non-biodegradable. That is, they do not break down in the soil or sea, but remain in a toxic form. Sevin is considered to be biodegradable, yet does a thorough job on the target insect.

Many persons are against applying an insecticide of any kind to reduce the population of insects. Basically, the city sprays against oak moths for the following reasons: Oak moths defoliate trees and in doing this, mar the tree's beauty. They also litter the ground and automobiles with their waste. Year after year defoliation weakens the tree to the point where the tree is more susceptible to other insects and diseases.

Oak moths have been in our area long before we came. They have periodically risen to epidemic proportions in recent history. However, we still have oaks in areas that have never been sprayed. Spraying kills the predators of oak moths as well as the oak moths themselves. If no one on the peninsula would spray oak moths, the predators would build up to a point where they could control the moths in a few years.

As the predator's population builds up, we would have fewer oak moths each year until a certain low point is reached. The moths would never be reduced to zero because of other factors. After a low population point is reached, there would not be enough moths to keep the large population of predators alive and they would die off. As the predators die off the oak moths start building up and the process starts once again.

As one can see by the above, the population of oak moths would rise and fall and may stay at some low level until something upsets this delicate relationship. This could be a warm winter or heavy rains. If we had a buildup of oak moths and a few people start spraying for them it would also throw the relationship off.

It's either an all-or-nothing situation. We can stop city spraying but will private citizens stop? We can't make them because we don't have the constitutional right.

We are stuck with a situation in which the control of oak moths is the only logical solution. And since we want to control the oak moth, we have to use an insecticide which meets the following points:

1. Low cost to the taxpayer
2. High toxicity to the target insect
3. Rapid breakdown in the environment
4. Low toxicity to birds and warm blooded animals.

The insecticide we use fits the bill until something superior is developed.

In the future, biological control and non-chemical insecticides may be used. We have non-chemical insecticides at the present time. One example is a commercial formulation of the Bacillus Thurengensis, a virus that is applied to the insect and leaves in the form of a spray. It does no damage to fish, birds, and mammals, but is still somewhat in the experimental stage and is very expensive. We are going to try it on an experimental basis in Carmel at certain locations this year.

Biological control is the process in which one form of life is used to control another. It is the closest to using nature's method but is not feasible yet. In the future, we will be able to purchase predator insects that will do their particular job on the target insects and not become a problem after they do their job.

One final word: don't pour any unwanted insecticide down the drain or throw it into the trash can. This will just add to the pollution problem. Call the City Forester's Office at 624-3543 and we will give instructions on how to dispose of it.

SECTION I THE FOREST TO BE MANAGED

Although some of the streets of Carmel, notably Ocean Avenue, were planted to trees, most of the village was tree-covered long before there was a Carmel. Robert Louis Stevenson walked through these forests. David Starr Jordan in 1885 or thereabouts reported forests extending to the white beach of Carmel. In 1902, Frank Devendorf filed the first map of a sub-division to which he gave the same name as the nearby river. The following year he and a partner formed the Carmel Development Company, whose holdings approximated the present area of the City of Carmel.

There are numerous records by early travelers passing through Carmel-by-the-Sea which mention a "village in a forest above a white ocean beach"; "a town whose citizens love trees". Many of the trees are older than the town. A recent survey of the trees on city property brings out some interesting facts:

There are 10,515 trees on the streets and other city property.

Pine, oak, acacia and cypress make up 85 percent of the total.

No one of the 59 other species of trees comprises more than 3.5 percent of the total.

Fourteen species account for 97 percent of all the trees on town property.

The general impression of a forest comes from more than just the trees on the city streets. It includes those on private property and the impression is created by fair-sized trees, not by tall shrubs. Some "trees" listed in the survey are merely tall shrubs, such as the wild lilac or Carmel Ceanothus which seldom becomes more than eight feet tall. Toyon, usually six to ten feet tall, occasionally becomes twenty to twenty five feet tall and is called a tree. Even the mirror plant (Coprosma sp.) sometimes reaches a height of ten feet.

The private property adjoining city streets and parks has many species not listed by the survey, but by and large, for purposes of management, the whole tree complex is one of pine, oak, acacia, cypress, eucalyptus and redwood with an occasional sycamore and palm. The forest thrives or does not thrive, depending on the health of these trees, not on the health of the occasional species.

This is an interesting group of trees. Monterey pine (Pinus radiata) has a limited natural range but no western conifer has been so abundantly planted all over the world. It has been planted as a valuable timber tree in Australia and South Africa and for over a hundred years as an ornamental in England. It is the fastest growing of all pines, attaining a height of 60 to 80 feet in 30 or 40 years. The largest diameter reached is about 40 inches at perhaps 150 years of age. Monterey Pine does not reach a great age. At 150 years it is overmature and apt to be decadent. Many of our most stately pines have lost the vigor required to fight off their natural enemies and will soon have to be replaced by young thrifty trees.

This pine occurs naturally only from Pescadero in San Mateo County to Cambria but is most abundant on the Monterey Peninsula, at Point Lobos State Park, and on a narrow strip of ocean bluffs as far south as Malpaso Creek. About 60 miles south a small stand is found on the Cambria Hills. It also occurs on Guadalupe Island, Mexico. It is a fog-belt tree; has always been a maritime tree as shown by fossil remains along the coast, but close to the shore near the high tide line, the Cypress takes over.

"The Light by Which We See" is the title of a Christian Science lecture to be given in Carmel on Tuesday, April 21. Noel D. Bryan-Jones of Worthing, England, will be the speaker.

The lecture will be given at 8 p.m. in the Sunset Auditorium, 9th & San Carlos. First Church of Christ Scientist is the sponsor. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Mr. Bryan-Jones was a Council member, Fellow, and Examiner of the British Optical Association before entering the healing ministry of Christian Science in 1957. In 1962, he was appointed to The Christian Science Board of Lectureship and is currently on an extensive lecture tour.

Carmel Presbyterian Chimes Bell Choir charms bay area with kicky performance

BY MRS. JOHN BEAHAN

Saturday, April 11th, was a big day for Carmel Presbyterian's Westminster Chimes Bell Choir. Would you believe? They played in Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, as a featured part of the Annual Mite Box Service!

The group arrived early by bus for a rehearsal to see how the bells would sound in the magnificent sanctuary. A hilarious sight greeted them. The decoration crew was blowing up hundreds of balloons with helium gas. Balloons were suspended from the four corners of the altar table, covered with a psychedelic altar cloth with flowers and the word "LOVE" across the front. Another flower-bedecked cloth reading "REJOICE" hung from the pulpit.

Balloons were suspended from the altar rail, from the central aisle pews, and two huge balloons hung over the altar near the roof.

Children from churches in the entire area carried banners as they marched in, robed in choir gowns until the church was filled. One tiny moppet had a small lace circlet on her head, a white surplice, and little blue tennis shoes peeking from under her black gown. Bright banners indicated churches as far distant as Burlingame.

A Boy Scout Bagpipe Band preceded the Chimes Bell Choir and their director, Mrs. W.J. Farlinger. Beaming Bishop Richard Millard of San Jose completed the procession in splendid regalia, carrying a crozier staff with three helium filled balloons suspended from the crook. (We later learned that a small boy had asked, "Why the balloons" and he replied, "It's rather heavy and the balloons help to carry it." Someone else asked, "Why three?" and he replied, "Father, Son and Holy Ghost.")

The Bell Choir played from the altar steps a Swiss folk melody, "Glockenspiel", and "Trumpet Tune" by Purcell, and were complimented by the Bishop for their excellence.

While the last hymn, "Oward Christian Soldiers" was being played by the mighty organ, hundreds of balloons floated down from apertures in the apex of the Cathedral. The entire service, which was gay and joyful, was punctuated by the sound of bursting balloons. During the Bishop's address on the subject of how the Mite Box money is used in Africa's schools and missions, a balloon burst and he cried out, "They got me!"

For the Bell Choir, the happy day was completed by a stop at Golden Gate Park, dinner at the Old Stanford Barn, and singing in the bus all the way home.

Members of the Westminster Chimes Bell Choir who performed on Saturday are Susan Arriola, Beau and Robin Bell, Peter Biggs, Clare Carter, Stan Farlinger, Nancy Palmer, Jyl and Lisa Porch, Peri Shefik, Susan Snorf, David Stone, Becky, Carolyn and Kathy Walker.

Among the adult members of Carmel Presbyterian along to enjoy the day was Mr. Frank D. Ratcliffe, who gave the beautiful set of hand bells in memory of his wife and daughter. His son, John, a surgeon in the Palo Alto area, and John's son, came to Grace Cathedral to hear the bells.

Mrs. Carruth to be honored at reception

Mrs. Connell K. Carruth, who is leaving May 1 for Oakland after more than 17 years as organist for the Church of the Wayfarer, will be honored at a reception in the Garden Room of the church from 3 to 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

Residents of the community as well as members of the church are invited to this farewell event for which the Wayfarer Guild, of which Mrs. Carruth has been an active member for many years, will be the hostess.

Mrs. Carruth came here in 1952 to stay for one month as a supply organist, but was persuaded to remain as the regular organist.

A graduate of Mills College, she was named to the music faculty of the college and was there 31 years before coming to Carmel.

She was organist for three Oakland churches and in 1966, when she had completed 50 years as a church organist, she was honored by the Church of the Wayfarer.

Mrs. Carruth is widely known in Monterey Peninsula music circles.

The light by which we see

In a dark room we see very little - though it may be full of beautiful things.

Sometimes the world itself seems dark, full of problems of every kind. But, just as a room can light up with the click of a switch, one's world can brighten when he turns to God for help.

Noel D. Bryan-Jones, a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will show how an understanding of God can enlighten one, help to free one from sickness and lack, and improve personal relationships.

'YEAR OF MY BIRTH WAS A DISASTER'

Adele Bramlet spins costume magic here in Carmel

BY JUDITH A. EISNER

At the top of the stairs leading to The Blue Pig on Ocean Avenue, you are met, quite naturally, by a huge blue pottery pig, proudly adorned with a red satin ribbon. You have just entered the shop and atelier of Adele Bramlet, official costume-maker for the Monterey Bicentennial.

Over near the windows are housed the materials of Adele Bramlet's art: the cutting tables, sewing machines, bolts of imported fabrics that become, under her inspired touch, the Victorian gowns, the Spanish Don suits, the picture hats, all the period costumes for which she is famed.

Addie, as she is known in the theatre, came to Carmel eight years ago to retire and raise a 10-month old grandson. "With nothing to do, I started to become neurotic," she says cheerfully, "so I went back to work." Anyone meeting this strong, vital woman today can readily understand how inactivity would be an impossibility for her.

Addie is proud of her age and the year of her birth. She was born on November 14, 1906, the year of the great San Francisco earthquake, "a year of great disaster and of rebuilding a city," as she puts it. Her family lived in Piedmont, across the bay from San Francisco, and her father took the old ferry boat across the bay to witness the earthquake damage. He told her in later years of the great break in Mission Street, several feet wide and quite deep, running for blocks.

Her father was a builder who erected, among other things, the ferry slip on the Oakland side of the bay and a number of large homes in San Francisco. Because of financial disaster created by the 'quake, many people could not pay for their homes, so when Adele was two years old her family moved to a ranch at the base of Mt. Diablo. After three years, they again moved to a larger ranch in the Castro Valley where they raised cattle and grain on a large scale.

For 50 years, Adele lived in this Valley. As a child she rode the hills and pastures on her own horse, riding without a saddle because her mother did not approve of a Western saddle and there was no sidesaddle to be found.

Because her mother feared the cultural isolation of ranch life, from the age of eight Adele spent weekends and vacations in San Francisco at the homes of her aunts. These families were involved in the political and theatrical life of San Francisco, and here Adele was first exposed to legitimate theatre.

Two of Adele's aunts and one cousin were actresses and through them she was exposed to the heart of the theatre. This was the era of Alice Gentle and Margery Rambeau, both of whom she knew. Miss Rambeau's nephew, who visits her each year here in Carmel, is still a dear friend. Through her cousin, she became acquainted with the great Eric Von Stroheim.

"The love of the theatre, the glamor, the make believe, the costumes, the backstage dressing rooms, the beautiful clothes, all became a part of my early life," Adele reminisces. When she was 10 years old she began to design clothes for her dolls to resemble the costumes of the actresses she knew.

Another aunt was a dressmaker of note, having an establishment that employed 32 seamstresses. Adele recalls outings with her aunts that included the delectable task of choosing "just one" French Pastry at the Pig and Whistle in San Francisco, then a stop at a sourdough french bread factory to buy a large loaf for 10 cents, and then a mysterious stop where she was made to sit outside a large house while her aunt went inside. "Later, I found out she played the Chinese Lottery," laughs Adele.

By the time Addie was 12 travel anymore," she says. "Carmel is a wonderful place and it's the people who make it so. I've found the expression of all my talents fulfilled living here."

After discovering that retirement was not her cup of tea, Addie got involved in the Studio Theatre in Carmel and did all their costuming for five years, as well as costuming for the Circle Theatre. She speaks with fondness of her relationship with Charlie Thomas of the Studio Theatre, and of her come from West Germany, from a mill that has been making velvet for 170 years."

As Official Costumer for the Bicentennial she has made over 140 costumes. These date from 1970 to late Victorian in period and are all authentic. Addie has an extensive library and researches all her costumes. She is especially proud of her hats, which, like the costumes they match, are completely authentic.

She has created and sewn all the costumes for Monterey Savings and Loan Association's participation in the Bicentennial and for Abinante's Music Shop. Addie also does private costuming for individuals needing period costumes for balls and parties as well as couturier dressmaking. "I often spend as long as a week on one outfit for a client," she says.

When interviewed, Addie had her Carmel home full with five of her eight grandchildren visiting. Her eldest daughter and two children now live here in Carmel, while another daughter lives in Canada and her son in Livermore. Asked about possibly retiring again, Addie laughs, "I have retired once and that was enough. I am making people beautiful and happy. This is my retirement."

years old, she became aware of her desire to draw. She added drawing lessons to an already busy schedule of piano, ballet and physical culture, and has continued to study art here in Carmel. From her father, she learned architecture and building and together with her first husband, built five homes using her design and plans and their own labor. "We did everything but the electrical and plumbing work" she says. "We did all the framing and actual building ourselves, a most rewarding job. All our houses are still standing and lived in today."

When this woman of many talents moved to Carmel to retire, she had been a regular visitor for some time. "I have no desire to great happiness when he asked her to costume "Noah". For this production, Mr. Thomas simply asked Adele to build the costumes; the total conception and creative design for "Noah" were done by Adele, and this, she feels, was the peak of her artistic expression.

Her reputation as a costumer grew and she has designed and executed the costumes for the Warehouse and Flora's on Cannery Row for five years now. She is proud that she does all her own work, including the sewing, and of the high quality materials she uses. She imports fabrics from Switzerland, Italy, England and Germany because she says their quality is unmatched. "My velvets all Water, water, everywhere, but...

Possible pollution in Carmel River

The Monterey County Health Department is starting a careful check of septic tanks in Carmel Valley to determine if any are polluting the Carmel River.

This was disclosed at a meeting of the Central Coast Regional Water Quality Control Board Friday in San Luis Obispo. The board heard testimony on the beneficial water uses in the Carmel River basin as the first step in determining a water quality control policy for the river.

Walter Wong, supervising sanitarian for Monterey County, told the board that high coliform counts have been recorded in the Carmel lagoon this year.

"We are doing more surveys, and plan to go house to house in the Valley to see how septic tanks are working," Wong reported. "For some time we have been encouraging all areas to annex to the Carmel Sanitary District."

Coliform readings in the Carmel lagoon rose to 24,000 per 100 ml. on March 2. The "acceptable" level is below 1000 per 100 ml.

Wong explained later that coliform bacteria are normally detected in the intestines of humans or animals. A coliform count in estuaries could also be caused by fertilizer washing into the water.

He said that the coliform counts in the Carmel River have shown a wide seasonal variation, rising sharply after a rainy period.

"This makes us suspicious, and it would seem to indicate that either soil is being washed down into the river or there are septic tank failures," he said.

High coliform counts indicate the presence of other bacteria that can cause disease, particularly typhoid and hepatitis.

Wong said two inspectors will check septic tanks in the Valley, concentrating on homes near the river. They will make extensive tests in areas with a noticeable odor, or where green grass is unusually abundant.

WELLS NOW SAFE

Also discussing the quality of Carmel River water was Wayne Millington, division engineer for the California-American Water Co. Millington assured the board that water coming from the company's wells in Carmel Valley is completely safe.

"We will always cooperate with standards for quality," he said.

Millington said that the company's wells now supply about 15 percent of the total water supply for the Monterey Peninsula. He estimated their shallowest well along the river at 90 feet, and the deepest about 137 feet.

Questions about water quality at the far upper reaches of the Carmel River were raised by another witness, Mrs. Richard Gayman.

Mrs. Gayman showed the board large photographs of a private airstrip carved out of a mountainside above San Clemente Dam. Clearly visible in the pictures was a wide scar going down the face of the mountain, where rocks, earth and brush had slid down to the dam. She also introduced aerial photographs of the dam taken March 29 which show an extensive accumulation of silt and mud in the dam.

Mrs. Gayman asked the board to check into a possible development by Del Monte Properties on land adjacent to San Clemente Dam. She said that a 60-foot-wide road now leads to this area, known as Murphy Flats, and expressed concern that its future development might stop the water company from considering construction of a larger dam in that area.

The board also received a letter from Edwin Lee, president of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, regarding possible pollution of the river by septic tanks.

No specific action on the river was taken at the meeting. Kenneth R. Jones, executive officer of the board, said it will take about six months to establish water others directly involved in sewage or water quality programs, and the other open to the public.

The board also voted to delete a timetable requirement from the existing cease and desist order to the Carmel Sanitary District.

The deleted section called on the district to complete an outfall extension by Sept. 1, to start work on a primary treatment plant by Aug. 1 and to complete the latter by July 1, 1971.

Brewer said that because of the defeat of the $1.5 million Carmel sewer bond "that time schedule is im-quality standards for the river basin.

In the meantime, Monterey Peninsula residents will be given an opportunity to learn more about sewage treatment and the possibilities of regional water reclamation.

PLAN WATER SYMPOSIUM

The board approved a resolution by Jackson Brewer of Carmel Highlands to sponsor a symposium on water quality on the Monterey Peninsula before June 1.

Outside experts will be invited to explain the differences in various degrees of sewage treatment. The symposium will probably be held in two parts, with one session limited to local government officials and possible to meet and totally inapplicable."

The deletion puts the order against the Carmel district in the same category as those issued to Pacific Grove and the Seaside County Sanitation District, and requires the district to show it can reduce bacteria counts in the ocean to safe levels.

'TIME HAS RUN OUT' —BRANSON

Realtors hear Branson warn of water rationing

"One more year of low rainfall, and water rationing may become a way of life on the Peninsula", Supervisor Willard Branson told a meeting of the Carmel Board of Realtors last Friday.

"Time has run out", he warned, "and we are behind the eight-ball. Ten years ago our reservoirs were inadequate. If we started building a new series of dams tomorrow, it would be too late."

Branson, who has been calling attention to the crucial water needs of this area, said that he has found "study after study" calling attention to our urgent need for a substantial increase in our water supply. "We may have become immune to these studies", he said, "because whenever we've turned on the spigot, out came the water."

Because of the dwindling supply of water, wells began siphoning off the supply and have been gradually lowering the water table to the point where it is disturbing our plant life. "We are inflicting severe damage to our environment," he said, "and we must salvage what we can and make restitution to nature."

What must we do? "We must begin by becoming deeply concerned about getting an adequate supply of water," he declared.

Branson then repeated his belief that the California-American Water Co., as a public utility, has the responsibility to give us an adequate and economical supply of water. They are also responsible, he said, for the conservation of our environment. "We must insist that our water table be restored and our environment not damaged", he said.

Turning to the controversial part of the problem, Branson listed the possible solutions, ruling out de-salinization and recycling of sewage as not sufficiently developed or "beyond the time frame-work of our needs."

The main consideration must be for a dam, and probably in the Carmel River, he said. This has been the subject of heated controversy in Carmel Valley, where several proposed damsites have been vigorously opposed by property owners and residents.

Obviously sensitive to the biting criticism he has been subjected to lately, Branson was careful to point out that he was "not advocating any particular answer at this time."

The damsites under consideration are the Klondike, farthest downstream; the Syndicate site, and San Clemente.

He said that these damsites "were in the consideration stage only, and that no recommendations have been made." He was hoping, he said, to hear from the water company "in the very near future" to see what their plans are.

Responding to recent attacks by critics of the Klondike site regarding an earthquake fault, Branson said that there were earthquake faults under most of the major dams in California. The Klondike site would also provide the best flood control possibilities, he said.

Long-range solutions to the overall water needs of the Peninsula will provide all the water we need in 15 years, he said "but we need water now."

Branson told a Pine Cone reporter that it would be five years before any additional water would be available from any one of the damsites under consideration now, "even if construction would start tomorrow."

Violet Graham Weisiger knows about books. Especially those on the shelves of Carmel's favorite reading place. Vi has been on the staff of the Harrison Memorial Library almost two decades. The daughter of Colonel Graham, who joined Teddy Roosevelt's forces in Cuba way back when, came into this world in Hawaii. When her father was Chief of Staff at Fort McKinley, Manila, Vi became very fond of rice in any form.

Trips to China, Japan, Korea, increased her interest. Now Vi is going to Spain on vacation. Friends in Carmel are assembling to give her a "despedida". We're of course going to have Vi's favorite Paella ... just for her.

Spain is noted for savory stews, rich and spicy, yet simple if prepared in advance. The national dish is cocido. Served from a large iron pot suspended over a wood fire in the countryside, it is a gypsy type of thing ... economical. Each province seasons the evening stew in its own way.

This type of meal-in-one-dish is also called olla podrida. The olla (cooking pot) is filled with podrida (assortment) of whatever is on hand. There are no conventional rules for the recipe. Experiment with different combinations but make your podrida as hearty as the budget permits.

Here is the menu we are offering Vi as a fun farewell:

This is a Carmel

streamlined version of the real old Spanish dish. The flavor is still intact, the preparation simplified. The budget spared. A marvelous buffet on a shoestring. Amount given should serve 10-12.

Remove chicken from cans, save jellied juice. Take meat off bones in good-sized pieces. Saute onions and garlic in small amount of olive oil. Heat jellied juices (add water mixed with chicken bouillon cubes to make 4 cups if necessary). Bring to a boil with rest of items. Cover and cook gently until rice is flaky and almost dry; this takes about 25 min. Put into serving dish, such as a pottery bowl. Keep hot. Top with extra parsley. This speedy version, although not actually the same as the great Spanish classic, is just right for working gals and is ready for elaboration. Add frozen peas, bottled or canned artichoke hearts, cooked shrimp, crabmeat, lobster in small pieces, clams in their shells on top. Even squid and eels to be a la Espanola. This was named "paella" by a Spanish king. His Majesty dreamed up this fancy dish for one of his lights of love ... "para ella" (for her).

You have fun also Vi.

Carmel Middle School will put on a demonstration fair for parents next Tuesday night in observance of Public Schools' Week.

The evening will start in the library at 7:30 p.m., where a schedule will be posted listing the departments participating in the fair and what times demonstrations will be in progress.

Parents will have an opportunity to watch physical education activities in the gymnasium, an excerpt from "The Mouse That Roared" in the language arts department, and the language lab in use.

Science projects prepared by students will be displayed in several rooms, and crafts will be for sale in the crafts room.

In the cafeteria the chess club, sponsored by the mathematics department, will present a live chess board, using students as chess pieces. There will also be demonstrations in the home economics department.

In addition to the school fair, Middle School has planned activities for the National Environmental Teach-in Day (next Wednesday) special social studies programs on Monday and Tuesday, and a spelling bee at 10:40 a.m. on Thursday.

Public Schools Week will have particular meaning for eighth grader Kay Miyamoto, who has been selected by the students and staff as the outstanding eighth grade citizen at Middle School. DOLORES BETWEEN OCEAN & 7th
CARMEL, CALIFORNIA 93921
TELEPHONE 624-3895

Three neighborhood dogs were lying companionably under an oak, enjoying the evening breezes, when up ambled an Irish Setter.

"Hello Rory," greeted his pal, the Boxer, touching noses with him. "Where's your Boy?"

"And where would he be on a fine evening like this?" snorted the Irish. "Why, taking a bath! And just because he got a little good, clean mud on his knees while playing!" The Irish lay down beside the Boxer.

"Baths, baths, baths!" exclaimed an indignant little Wirehaired Terrier. "That's all these mothers think about!"

"Baths are lovely," mused the Miniature Poodle, shaking her topknot and its pink ribbons.

"Well, you should know," said the Irish, "always being scrubbed and primped and fussed over. It isn't doglike."

"You don't have to be dirty to be a dog!" objected the Poodle. "I get bathed and creme rinsed and clipped and perfumed every month and I love it."

"My Boss gets me bathed and clipped four times a year and I hate it," snapped the Terrier.

"I once got a bath," mused the Irish. "That was when I chased a skunk. And my boss bathed me in tomato juice! Horrid. I smelled worse from that stuff than from the skunk."

"And I've never had a bath and I'm proud of it," chimed in the Boxer. "And I dare anyone to say I'm a dirty dog!"

xxx

If the dogs themselves can't agree, no wonder humans are so confused about dog bathing. The Poodle does very well with her once-monthly bathing; the Terrier seems satisfactorily clean being bathed four times a year; and the Boxer brags that he's never had a bath! Somewhere, there is a happy medium for dogs.

In general, the rule to follow in dog bathing is to avoid it except when absolutely necessary. Regular thorough grooming plus an occasional going over with a damp sponge or towel or a commercial "dry bath" is usually sufficient to keep most dogs clean and fresh. Only if your dog becomes especially dirty from rolling in some foul substance or so thoroughly muddy that brushing won't do the job should you resort to a bath.

Exceptions are to be made, however, for dogs like the Poodle whose lot in life is to be bathed and clipped regularly, every four to six weeks, and for show dogs, who frequently are bathed before each show. These dogs give the lie to the adage that warns never to bathe a dog, for their coats are generally in better condition than dogs who never experience soap and water. But before you decide to scrub Towser every month, remember two things: Poodles' coats are so dense that lack of bathing and grooming would probably create more skin problems than such regular care; and show dogs are generally fed top quality diets, with sufficient fats and supplements to ward off dry or scaling skin due to overbathing.

Additionally, these dogs who are bathed regularly are bathed properly. They are not simply hosed down and scrubbed with household soap, but are treated with special coat preparations and rinses to safeguard the coat and skin.

When the need arises to bathe your dog, the best approach is to treat his coat the way you'd treat your own hair. Actually, you are shampooing the dog, since he is covered with hair, rather than bathing him as you would bathe your own skin.

A trained, controllable dog should behave when being bathed, although you cannot expect him to enjoy the process. Before you plunge him into the tub, take two precautions. Place small plugs of cotton in his ears to prevent water from entering, and put one or two drops of mineral oil in each eye for the same reason. If you are using your own bathtub, a non-slip mat will make the dog feel more secure, for his feet cannot grip on a slippery tub bottom.

You can place the dog in the tub before you add water, which will be less frightening to him. If you have a spray attachment, leave the drain open and wet the dog thoroughly with warm, never hot or cold, water. Be sure to wet the coat down to the skin. Then, preferably using a good quality dog shampoo, available at pet shops, soap and lather the dog. If you are inexperienced at bathing dogs, it's a good idea to use a washcloth on his face rather than applying soap directly. Do not wash the insides of his ears! Ears require special treatment and soap and water should not be introduced into them.

It isn't enough, to wash the dog's back. His back, neck, legs, paws, underbody, tail, every part should be cleaned. Then, working just as carefully as you would with your own hair, rinse the dog. Soap left on his skin will cause itching, dryness, dandruff and more trouble than he had before he was bathed. So rinse thoroughly and carefully, and when you're sure there's no soap left, rinse some more. It isn't easy to get under the dog, even with a spray attachment, so be especially thorough with his chest and belly.

When you're absolutely certain he's rinsed, remove him from the tub onto a bathmat or heavy towel and wrap him in another towel. Toweling a dog dry is like drying your hair; you can get the top hair fairly dry, but the undercoat will retain water. You may have to use several large towels on a medium-sized dog and he'll still be wet.

If you have a hair dryer, make the dog lie on a clean towel and use the dryer on him, spreading his coat, or combing it, to dry to the skin. If you cannot use a dryer, keep the dog indoors, except in hottest weather, for at least an hour; then he can be permitted out to relieve himself for a few minutes, but should be called in again to continue drying.

Handweavers to hold meeting at Fairgrounds

A large show of modern handwoven fabrics, rugs, wall hangings, stitcheries and other revivals of the ancient craft of weaving will be on public display April 26, at the Monterey Fairgrounds.

For the first time in ten years this Northern California Handweavers' Conference will be held on the Peninsula. In previous years it has met in the Bay Area because of superior show space available there. Some 600 weaver guild members will show their most recent work in the Fine Arts buildings and the Crafts House at the Monterey Fairgrounds. There will also be several Student Shows and commercial firms will display the latest models of looms, newest books, and a great variety of yarns.

The complete show will be open to the public on Sunday, April 26, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for $1.00 donation per person. This is a unique opportunity for area residents, and for visitors, to see what is recent and fine in the now popular weaving arts.

Carmel artist to lecture in San Jose Apr. 24

Internationally-noted Carmel artist Irene Lagorio will present an illustrated color slide lecture titled, "Creative Collaboration", to members and friends of the San Jose Art League, Friday, April 24, at the Art League's headquarters on 482 South Second St. San Jose.

Miss Lagorio's lecture will tell the story of the motivation and creation of a series of graphics she developed in conjunction with Dennis Francis, San Francisco Bay Area poet. Slides of the project from inception to completion will be shown. Also included will be personal anecdotes and slides of the artist and writer taken during the creative collaboration.

Carmel Art Assn admits four new members

Four artists have been admitted as full, professional members of the Carmel Art Association by the group's directors at their first quarterly meeting on April 2nd. The artists are Allison Cameron Stillwell, Richard Robertson, Howard Bradford and Frank Ashley.

In a break with tradition, the association's board of directors decided to choose new members four times a year, instead of only once a year. This was prompted by last year's marathon session, during which the directors had to choose from among the work of 97 artist-applicants.

Three more selection meetings will be held this year; the dates will be announced in the Carmel Pine Cone.

Allison Stillwell is the master of the traditional Oriental style in watercolor, and returns to membership in the Carmel Art Association after an absence of several years.

Robert Robertson, a graduate of Oregon State with a B.A. in art, also studied at the Art Center School in Los Angeles. His favorite media are oil and watercolor.

Howard Bradford makes serigraphs. He has been an artist for many years and received his formal training in Southern California.

Besides the graphic artistry of his silk screen prints, he also works in oils.

Frank Ashley's work shows that he delights in people, race tracks, and sporting events. He won a major prize when he took first in the "Art U.S.A." exhibit at Madison Square Garden in 1958.

The addition of these four artists to the fourteen who became members last year bring fulfillment to the idea of offering the community and its visitors the finest in local painting, drawing, and sculpture.

The Carmel Art Association, now in its 50th year, is located on Dolores between 5th and 6th. It is artist-owned and operated, with some 150 artists exhibiting their own work. The artists must reside within a 35-mile radius of Carmel.

MARY POMEROY'S WILDFLOWER PAINTINGS NOW ON EXHIBIT

Wildflowers of Ecuador by Mary Barnas Pomeroy of Carmel Valley is being shown through April at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History.

Mrs. Pomeroy, a native of Germany, lived for a time in Quito, Ecuador before immigrating to the United States. In Ecuador, trips to tropical jungles and the high Andes enabled the artist to paint the remarkably diverse and colorful flora of the region, some of which is still unknown to botanists.

In the United States, Mrs. Pomeroy studied painting at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts under Roy Nuse, Daniel Garber, Franklin Watkins and Henry Pitz.

While living in Berkeley, the artist was commissioned to illustrate the well known Flora of the Marshes of California and several smaller botanical papers. Her work has appeared in America's Magazine and is in the permanent collection of the Hunt Botanical Library of the Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Mrs. Pomeroy has had one-man shows in Quito, Ecuador; Philadelphia, Berkeley, San Francisco and Carmel Valley.

The collection of 29 paintings may be viewed daily at the museum from 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. The location is the corner of Forest and Central Avenues in Pacific Grove.

Seven local students are State Scholars

Five students from Carmel and two from Carmel Valley were selected this week as State Scholars for the 1970-71 academic year.

Scholarships are awarded to academically able students who are in need of financial assistance at the college they will attend. All State Scholars selected this year are within the highest 10 percent of college aptitude.

There were selected from more than 33,000 applicants. There were 6,023 awards available to a maximum of $2000. Each of the State Scholars is entitled to apply for annual renewal of his award if he maintains academic and financial eligibility under the regulations.

Carmel students who won scholarships are Lance H. Lightfall, Julia A. McFall, Helen M. Sedletzky, Donald F. Steiny and Grey Zimmerman.

Carmel Valley students are Christopher Hansen and Randolph E. Neall.

TRAVEL

Stevenson School students have quite a trip south

BY GEORGE WING

On March 20th, 18 Robert Louis Stevenson School students, wielding machetes and holding Mr. and Mrs. L.W. Robertson as hostages, "skyjacked" a Pan Am jet clipper to Guatemala City, Guatemala. Upon their arrival at Guatemala International Airport, custom officials offered no resistance. The officials remembered from last year's crisis that once these "radical" students are granted asylum in the land of the jaguar, ancient Maya and Chiquita bananas, they are pacified. By 5:00 p.m. we were well established in the summer headquarters of the Robertsons, the Palace Hotel.

The National elections had been held only a week before our arrival and on every conceivable flat surface political poster after poster was pasted. Most interesting were the party names - the Military Party for National Liberation, the Provisional Revolutionary ... The PR it might be added had been the party in power for the past 15 years. The president elect is Col. Ortorio Arana of the Military Party. His reputation had been enhanced by his aggressive handling of guerillas a few years back.

The next day the RLS entourage boarded a bus for a trip to three lowland Pre-Classic Maya sites. At Monte Alto, the first stop, we were met at the field headquarters of Peabody Museum, Harvard University by Richard Rose, currently doing work toward his doctorate degree. Whether Monte Alto functioned primarily as a religious ceremonial or trade center is not at this time known. Its importance, however, lies in terms of its age - about 350 B.C. - and possible relationship to Itzapa at the Mexican-Guatemala border. Also being studied here is the possible Olmec influence in the Pacific Lowland area.

While in the small town of La Democracia we saw large Olmec-like heads excavated at Monte Alto last year.

After lunch the bus was directed to El Baul and Bilbao - here numerous monuments are located on fincas, including two still worshipped by local Indians, as evidence by small piles of copal and candle wax. Both stelae were carved on huge basalt boulders as are all in the Santa Lucia Colzulmahuapa region. Stylistically the sculpture of this area is known by this name.

At 10:00 Sunday morning we were halfway to Copan, Honduras, in a DC-3. This flight in itself is an experience - to fly in an elderly, durable pre-jet plane. Aviateca, the only Guatemala air-line, serves the country and adjoining republics. Patience is a virtue one must have waiting for your flight to takeoff.

The Maya ruins located a mile and a half from the pueblo proper are very impressive. In 776 A.D. during the Late Classic period, Copan was the site of the great astronomical congress; when the rulers of a number of great Mayan cities met to adjust the Mayan calendar. Built in commemoration of this congress is the famous hieroglyphic stairway, where on the tiers are over 2500 Mayan hieroglyphs. Adjacent to the stairway is a ball court where active ball games occurred with sometimes unusual endings - the loser or losers being decapitated.

In Copan's ceremonial plaza stand the unique stela in-the-round. These stela in deep relief, averaging 3 meters in height, are thought to depict great rulers and priests. Many still have traces of their original red paint - a sacred Maya color.

In the pueblo, Copan, we stayed at the Pension Marina and feasted on their good food. In the evening we gathered in the main plaza for a visit with the Hondurans. It was fun attempting to make our gringo Spanish intelligible. Brion Ford who is fairly fluent in Spanish, held an impromptu English class. The Hondurans are a most friendly people who seemly enjoyed our presence. The language barrier proved ineffectual when people both young and old wish to communicate.

Many of the children in Copan we found cannot afford the $5 a month school tuition. One senior, Jum Kinslow, upon his return to RLS hopes to overcome currency exchange in order to send monthly payments for one boy, Luis Armando, for his education.

The geographical position of Copan, formed by the Copan River valley, is 14 degrees North and 89 degrees West. Elevation is at 1800 feet. Under the shade and strangled by naked roots of giant Ceibas, this ancient city rests. All in deep shadows of the most impenetrable mystery. Architecture, astronomy, mathematics, sculpture - glory, beauty once lived here. A great civilization fell. What happened? Archaeologists are just beginning to unravel pieces. Someday the story will be told.

George Ducas, who is the secretary general of the Federation of the Alliance Francaise in the United States, will arrive from New York to give a conference here on April 23.

Mr. Ducas will discuss French culture in French occupied countries in his usual amusing but factual manner. The meeting is open to the public and will take place at the Carmel Art Association at 8:30 p.m. (located between 5th and 6th on Dolores). A small dinner will be given in Mr. Ducas' honor by the Carmel committee of l'Alliance Francaise.

Returning by way of Canadian Pacific Railway, Mrs. George R. Beck of Rio Rd. Carmel, and her younger daughter, Georgia, finally completed their Easter trip to Virginia and Vermont.

The trip began with a flight to Washington D.C. where they toured the White House and spent two afternoons in the National Gallery of Art. Then on to visit Mrs. Beck's Aunt and Uncle, Col. and Mrs. Hurford H. Davison who live in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains near Charlottesville, Va.

Georgia spent two days with her friend Christie Dezer at the home of her parents, Col. and Mrs. C.N. Dezer, in Springfield, Va., (formerly residents of Mission fields); then both traveled to Woodstock, Vermont to spend the remainder of the time with Mrs. Norman Williams, grandmother of Mrs. Beck's son, Peter Parkhurst of Carmel Valley. Mrs. Williams' home was built in 1776, the oldest frame house in Woodstock.

Having absorbed a considerable amount of early American history by this time, they were brought abruptly from past to present by current problems created by the airline controller's strike, particularly effective in the Northeast. Mrs. Williams entertained for Mrs. Beck, and the consensus of opinion among the guests was that the travelers should return home via Canada.

Upon arrival in Montreal they were greeted by a near blizzard which necessitated a quick shift from air to rail transportation. The happy pair arrived in Carmel this week, tired but happy.

Something new next Wednesday afternoon for the members of the Carmel Foundation. They are invited to take their current membership card and go to the Village Theater at 2:00 p.m. to see "Boris Godunov", presented by the Bolshoi Opera Company. Then about 4:00 p.m. to stop at "Town House" for tea.

The Paradise Dancers will take the Carmel Foundation members and guests on a dreamy trip to Hawaii. The Paradise Dancers consist of two daughters (Ann and Jill Neimi), and Grandma Rea. They will present about a half hour show demonstrating the implements used in Hawaiian dancing. Tea will follow.

DR. BAEZ HAS SOME ANSWERS ON WHY 'WE'RE IN A MESS'

"Are scientists responsible for the mess we're in?" Dr. Albert V. Baez of Carmel Valley, Harvard University physics instructor and consultant to the United Nations Office of Science and Technology, will propose some answers to this question in a lecture Thursday at 7 p.m. in Monterey Peninsula College's Lecture-Forum 102.

The lecture is open to the public without charge, and no tickets will be required for admission.

Dr. Baez defines "the mess we're in" in terms of the problems of population, pollution, peace and poverty, and in his lecture, he will also touch upon the problems of politics, prisons and pot.

"I have come to the conclusion that scientists have been involved in aggravating all of them," he says. "But I also raise the questions: is it possible to pull out of this mess without scientists and engineers? And, how willing are we to give up the conveniences that technology has given us?"

"I end by considering the socially redeeming features of science, what I as a scientist have attempted to do and what I think the members of my audience might do about the problems that face us."

Dr. Baez has been engaged for part of his time during the past two years as scientific collaborator on physics films being produced by Encyclopaedia Britannica Educational Corporation at MPC. He is the author of "The New College Physics-A Spiral Approach," published in 1967.

MOGENUS DALSGAARD

Danish pianist to play at Sunset Friday evening

A young Danish pianist, Mogens Dalsgaard, will be presented in concert at Sunset Auditorium, Friday evening at 8:30 p.m. by the Monterey Chapter of the American-Scandinavian Foundation.

Dalsgaard, 28, is spending a month at Wayne State College, Wayne, Nebraska, as musician-in-residence, performing, lecturing and coaching. He studied at the North Jutland Conservatory and the Royal Danish Conservatory in Copenhagen. He won the competition for the official debut concert in Copenhagen when he was 21 and was awarded the Honorary Prize of the Association of Danish Music Critics as well as the Gladsaxe Music Prize.

With the stated purpose of the advancement of cultural relations between the United States and the Scandinavian countries, the two-month old Monterey Chapter was given its first opportunity in cultural exchange when W.A. Brandenburg, president of Wayne, Nebr. State College, visited the Peninsula in March, saw an announcement of the formation of a Chapter of the American-Scandinavian Foundation, and wrote asking if the Chapter could arrange a concert so young Dalsgaard could see "the most beautiful part of America - the Monterey Peninsula."

With such an appeal the Monterey Chapter could not refuse, although it was scarcely ready to take on the job of "impresario."

Reviews from Wayne give glowing reports of Dalsgaard's special knowledge of Scandinavian music, his extensive repertoire, his fluent technique and sound musicianship.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at Scandia Restaurant, Ocean near Lincoln, Carmel, afternoons except Thursday. For further information call Mrs. John P. Beahan, 624-2838.

"Three Bags Full"

The Uproarious Farce Comedy by Jerome Chodorov

Adults: $2.50, Students & Enlisted Military (with ID Card) $1.00. Phone Reservations Accepted: 624-2669.

Fun and funny-'Three Bags Full' wins critical praise

Enlightenment? No. Fun? Yes.

In a word, that about says it for "Three Bags Full", the comedy which opened at the Circle Theatre last week.

Without a doubt, the cast - and it is superb - enjoyed staging this farce as much as the audience enjoyed watching it.

And that was plenty. Michael Keller put it all together, and it's pure hilarity, suspenseful and slick.

The situations created by the playwright, Jerome Chodorov, are incredibly clever. With dialog to match.

The performances, without exception, were groovy. There was W.H. Scholefield as Bascom Barlow, the befuddled industrialist around whom the action centers. He was terrific.

Will he turn the business over to upstart John Doolittle (as Richard Flyle)? Will Doolittle take it away from him? Will he steal his daughter, too? Or, is it really his daughter?

The bag-switching bit is something else. The Three Bags of the title - all identical - contain, respectively, a cachet of diamonds, $250,000 in cash - and a pair of, shall we say, bloomers. Ridiculous, perhaps, but the bag by-play can be escalated into situation comedy at its best.

And it is, thanks to Doolittle's clever handling of his role.

Go on through the cast. They are excellent, with a wonderful feeling for comedy. Jean McBride as the maid, Kathleen; Layne Littlepage as the daughter, Angela; Joyce Malikoff as Genevieve Barlow; Annabel Lund as Jeanette; Bob Lotz as Mr. Cottingham; Florence Larsen as Charlotte; and Roy Baxter as the chauffeur Boris is sensational. Mike Keller was his usual spectacular self in a bit role as Cottingham Jr., and should not have omitted his name from the program.

With quality presentations such as "Three Bags Full" and "Any Wednesday" playing our two local theatres, we daresay Carmel has some of the finest - if not the finest - Little Theatre in the country.

Bags plays weekends at the Community Theatre on Casanova and it shouldn't be missed.

DIVISION 3 - TREES AND SHRUBS
ARTICLE 1 - CUTTING AND TRIMMING TREES AND SHRUBS ON CITY PROPERTY

1230. PURPOSE AND INTENTION. The City Council hereby finds that it is necessary to maintain the existing urban forest in order to preserve windbreak protection, abate soil erosion and enhance the natural beauty of the City and adopts this Division in the interest of public health and safety.

1230.01 POLICY STATEMENT. It is not the policy of the city to approve requests for tree trimming or tree removal in order to improve the view of any person, including the applicant. It is the policy of the city, where tree removal is accomplished at the request of a property owner or occupant, to require the planting of another tree in a suitable location, whenever good forestry practice so dictates.

1230.1 DEFINITIONS. For the purpose of this Division of the Code, the following definitions shall apply:
TREE shall mean a woody perennial plant, usually with one main stem or trunk, and many-branched. It may appear to have several stems or trunks, as in certain varieties of oak. It is usually over 10 feet high at maturity.
SHRUB shall mean a bushy, woody plant, usually with several permanent stems, and usually not over 10 to 15 feet high at maturity.

1230.2 DETERMINATION OF DEFINITION. In any case, the City Forester shall have the right to determine whether any specific woody plant shall be considered a tree or a shrub. Such determination shall be final and not subject to appeal.

1231. PERMIT FOR REMOVAL OF TREES. Any person desiring to cut down or remove any tree growing in or upon any public street, way, park or place within the City, or any tree on private property when more than one-half of the basal cross-sectional area of such tree is on City property, or when more than one-half of the foliage of such tree overhangs City property, shall file an application therefor with the City Clerk. Such application shall be accompanied by a deposit of ten dollars ($10.00) for each tree to be cut down or removed. Each application shall include a plot plan showing the location of the tree or trees concerned and shall further include a statement of the reason for the request.

Upon receipt of such application, the City Clerk shall forward the application to the City Forester who shall indicate on said application:

a. The health or condition of the tree or trees.

b. Whether or not such removal is justified by reason of:

(1) Good forestry practice
 (2) The poor health or dangerous condition of the tree or trees.

(3) Construction or other improvement on private property, and return the application to the City Clerk.

If, in the opinion of the City Forester, the tree or trees should be removed because of disease, infestation or clear and present danger to persons or property, he shall cause the tree or trees to be removed and the City Clerk shall return the deposit to the applicant.

In all other cases, the City Clerk shall:

c. Place the application on the Agenda of the Forestry Commission which shall act as provided for in Sections 270 through 273, inclusive.

d. If denied by the Forestry Commission, the deposit shall be returned to the applicant together with a notice of the action of the Commission.

e. If approved, the deposit shall be placed in the Tree Planting Fund and the applicant notified of the action of the Commission.

Any permit granted hereunder is nontransferable and shall expire one (1) year from date of issuance.

1231.01 FILING OF APPEALS. Any appeal from a decision of the Forestry Commission shall be taken by filing a notice of appeal in writing in the office of the City Clerk prior to the close of the fifth day of business following the day of action by said commission. Any notice of appeal shall set forth the specific ground or grounds upon which the appeal is taken. The signature of at least one signer of said appeal shall be verified before a person authorized under the laws of the State of California to administer oaths.

1231.02 DUTIES OF CITY CLERK. Upon the filing of such appeal, the City Clerk shall place the appeal upon the agenda of the next regular meeting of the City Council, unless the Mayor authorizes placing the matter on the agenda of an earlier meeting.

1231.03 DETERMINATION BY CITY COUNCIL. At the time set for hearing the appeal, the City Council shall proceed to hear and determine the same. Said hearing may be continued, at the discretion of the Council, in order to obtain further facts or hear further witnesses. After initial hearing, the City Council may set a Public Hearing prior to making a determination. Any determination of the City Council shall be final and conclusive and not subject to further appeal.

1231.1 PERMIT FOR REMOVAL/IMPROVEMENT OF PRIVATE PROPERTY. In the event a permit for tree removal is granted, in order to enable the applicant to carry out some project of development or improvement of his property, such permit shall be effective only in connection with the actual accomplishment of said project.

1231.2 PERMIT FOR TRIMMING OF TREES OR THE REMOVAL OR TRIMMING OF SHRUBS. Any person desiring to trim, shape, or remove wood or roots from any tree or to remove or trim any shrub, except genista, growing in or upon any public street, way, park or place within the City, or any person desiring to cut any wood, foliage, or roots from any tree on private property when more than one-half of the basal cross-sectional area of such tree is on City property or when more than one-half of the foliage of such tree overhangs City property, shall apply therefor to the City Forester. The City Forester may:

a. Grant such permission and allow the work to be done by the applicant at his own expense, or
 b. Approve such request and recommend the work be done by the City, if such removal or trimming would benefit the general public, or
 c. Deny the request.

The applicant may appeal any decision of the City Forester to the City Council within ten (10) days of such decision.

1231.3 METHOD OF TRIMMING. All limb cuts made on trees covered by this division shall be smooth and flush with the trunk or larger branch on which cuts are made. All limb cuts larger than one-half inch on oaks and broad-leaved trees and two inches on conifers must be treated with a preservative approved by the City Forester.

1231.4 EXCLUSIONS. The provisions of this article shall not apply to the cutting or trimming of trees or shrubs:

a. When necessary for the construction of streets or buildings on public property
 b. When determined by the Chief of Police to be necessary for traffic safety

c. When covered by the provisions of Article 3 of this Division
 d. When ordered by the City Council

1231.5 RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE CITY FORESTER. The City Forester shall:

a. Supervise all tree cutting or trimming for which a permit has been granted

b. Cause to be removed all dead trees or shrubs from public property

c. Cause to be removed or trimmed any trees or shrubs for which such removal or trimming is ordered by the Forestry Commission or the City Council or is required in connection with any public works project ordered by the City Council.

1231.6 REGULATION OF THE CUTTING BY THE CITY OF TREES PARTIALLY ON PRIVATE PROPERTY. When more than one-half of the basal cross-sectional area of a tree is on private property and the remainder on City property, or when more than one-half of the foliage of a tree overhangs private property and the remainder is over City property, the City shall not cut or trim wood, foliage, or roots except when:

a. In the opinion of the City Forester such cutting would not threaten the survival of the tree nor endanger public health and safety, nor endanger the health and safety of the property owner, and

b. Permission has been granted by the property owner concerned.

Annual Native Plant Sale to be Held Saturday

Native plant lovers will have a chance to enjoy and buy their favorites on Saturday when the Monterey Bay Chapter of the California Native Plant Society will hold its annual native plant sale at Jewell Park in Pacific Grove. The sale, which begins at 10 a.m., will be held in conjunction with the annual Wildflower Show given at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History.

Well known local botanist, Miss Beatrice Howitt, will be on hand to give advice for the planting and care of the plants. Proceeds from the sale are used by the Society to help finance projects for the preservation of native plants.

Ken Taylor, president of the local chapter and an authority on bonzai, said that the sale this year will have a great variety.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

I read your article on the proposed new gas station with interest. As a resident of Danville, I know what your community is fighting. I hope they are able to keep the station from being constructed.

Your community has a better chance of having something to say than our community. We have 14 gas stations and could get by with seven. Most of these stations are on their second or third owners because there just is not the business to support them. One station was constructed at the south freeway off-ramp in Danville. There was a change of owners and finally it boarded up! It stood this way until the Oil Company found out that the land use permit would run out by being boarded up. The company, therefore, had to re-open the station and run it at a loss.

This could happen to the proposed station for your area. The survey on Carmel, made by the two seniors from the Athenian School in Danville, had a good result.

I hope your Planning Commission will re-read that story on page 24 and note the result.

Cordially,
WILLIAM R. HOCKINS

Los Altos edges Pebble Beach tennis players

Last Saturday at Pebble Beach a strong Los Altos tennis team nosed the Beach and Tennis Club players in dual play Saturday 18 to 15. Play was in men's doubles, ladies doubles, and mixed doubles. On Sunday both teams combined and played a round robin.

In the feature match on Saturday, Nick Carter, the crafty veteran professional from Los Altos, and Jack Moose Myers, former all pro fullback for the Eagles and Rams, edged Evan Nopert, Carmel, and Ken Green, Pebble Beach, in probably the longest match in Pebble Beach history; the match lasted three hours and twenty minutes.

Carter and Myers won again on Sunday in the round robin event, and Frances Umphred, Carmel, Gerry Carter teamed to win the first flight in the ladies doubles.

Kiwanis honors past presidents

At the Kiwanis luncheon meeting last Thursday presided over by President Leif Erickson, the twenty-first anniversary of the founding of the Club was celebrated by welcoming many of the past presidents, including the first, Hal Nielsen. Also honored were Carl Patnude, Hal Armour, Frank Born, Bob McIntyre, Don Mitchell, Chuck Dawson, Gene Harrah, Walt Pilot, and Junior Past-President Web Downer. Doc O'Connell, a member with 43 years of perfect attendance came to Carmel as past-president of the Modesto Club.

The "long-suffering" long-time secretary, George Baxter, was also present. These "old timers" related how the late Fong Q. Jing organized the club 21 years ago by calling 25 people and announcing that they had been selected as outstanding members of the Carmel community and "they would be present at 3 o'clock at the Art Association Gallery to organize a new Kiwanis Club." They all showed up and had their first meeting the following week.

Kiwanis has been active in Carmel community projects ever since. The latest project, now in progress, is beautification of the Carpenter Street entrance to Carmel at Highway One. Shrubs will soon replace the weeds in the center strip.

ROACH CANYON IS

'SAVED' ONCE AGAIN

The County Board of Supervisors last week made it official: the 15 acres it owns in Roach Canyon is to be preserved "for so-called passive park purposes" to enhance the beauty of the Valley in general and the immediate area in particular.

The resolution clarifying the status of the canyon was adopted at the request of Supervisor Willard T. Branson of Carmel Valley.

Earlier this year, the canyon had been proposed as the location for a corporation yard for the County Road Department and a school bus garage for the Carmel school district.

This idea was voted down by the County supervisors last month after conservationists pointed out that the land had originally been deeded to the county for park purposes in 1966 by the Alcan Pacific Co.

This new resolution on Roach Canyon specifies that the 15 acres shall be left undisturbed except for any necessary access roads or for a botanical garden not involving county tax funds.

The County Parks Department is considering Roach Canyon as an access route for hikers and horseback riders to an expanded Jacks Peak Park.
